2. The Urban population is growing rapidly, India is no exception to the trend. There are 14.6 million people living in urban areas of Andhra Pradesh, constituting about 30% of the total population in the State and is projected to be more than double by 2029. This will put tremendous pressure on provision of services and infrastructure in the urban areas and quality of life to its citizens.

3. At present, the Urban Local Bodies in the State require institutional support to meet its infrastructure demands. Further, the funds available with the Government are also limited to meet the projected demand for urban development in the State.
